Innovative 100-Year Old Drinking Fountain Company Provides Environmentally Friendly Water Solution

[Sparks, Nevada, USA] – With the current purge of plastic water bottles, the big question remains unanswered: how will the public re-fill their portable water containers away from home? Haws Corporation® of Nevada has an immediate solution to the demands of the environmentally mindful and thirsty population – the HydrationStation™. The HydrationStation™ is a wall-mounted, hands-free, water dispensing unit that processes tap water into filtered, chilled water and then dispenses into the container of your choosing. Not only is it a better answer for today's health-conscious life styles, but it is environmentally beneficial by assisting in the elimination of plastic water bottle refuse.

Already installed at several universities, the HydrationStation™ is sensor operated, so there is no need to touch the dispenser during use. In addition, the nozzle, drain and other key components are antimicrobially treated using the natural protection of silver which helps protect against the growth of mold and mildew. Before water reaches the HydrationStation™ nozzle, it runs through a NSF-certified filter to remove sediment, chlorine, taste and odor to deliver clean, “polished” water. This filtration system offers superior filtration capability with low pressure drop, for consistent taste and performance over the 2,000-gallon life of the cartridge.

Haws Corporation was founded by Luther Haws in 1906 when he developed the world's first drinking faucet in Berkeley, California. Luther Haws' innovative style still drives the third and fourth-generation family-owned company. Visit www.stayhydrated.net for more information on the Hydration Station.
