Haws Corporation introduces agreement with CADdetails for online drawing library creation.

[Sparks, Nevada USA] – Haws Corporation® is pleased to announce that they have selected CADdetails to help execute their online product library program.

CADdetails is the only online library that fully integrates CAD drawings, CSI-formatted specifications, 3-D models, and product photographs and provides this information to specifiers free of charge on their website.

Through the use of CADdetails, Haws Corporation will be best situated to take advantage of the explosive growth of the web as a tool used by industrial specifiers as a source of information on products and services. Specifiers will be able to immediately find the products for their application and download scalable 3-D drawings immediately for inclusion into their specifications free of charge.

For more information on CADdetails visit www.caddetails.com.
